1. Under which circumstances do the rules apply?

No offer to the public of securities can be made without drawing up a prospectus that must be approved by the Danish FSA before the offer starts.

If the value of the offer of securities ranges from EUR 1,000,000 to EUR 5,000,000, and if the securities are not to be admitted to trading on a regulated market, you have to provide a 'small' prospectus in accordance with the Executive Order on Prospectuses.

It is the total amount that the investors have to pay that determines whether the rules apply. This means that any fees etc. will be included in the calculation of the size of the offer of securities.

2. Where can I find the rules?

In general, the rules governing small prospectuses are found in chapter 12 of the Danish Securities Trading etc. Act, while a more detailed description of the content of the prospectus is found in the Executive Order on Prospectuses.

Please also refer to the guidelines pertaining to this subject which contain information on the interpretation and understanding of the individual provisions of the Executive Order on Prospectuses.

The guidelines and acts can be found on the FSA website, where you can also find other relevant information on prospectuses.

3. What is the estimated processing time?

As the processing of a prospectus differs from one prospectus to the next, it is impossible to state the exact amount of time the Danish FSA needs to approve a submitted prospectus.

In general, the FSA needs 10 business days to review and comment on the first draft of the prospectus. Each subsequent review will take five business days. On average, a prospectus undergoes four reviews at the FSA before it is ready for approval.

Although not a requirement, we recommend that the issuer or offeror draws up a timetable for the offer and sends it to the FSA, preferably prior to submitting the first draft of prospectus or along with it. This would help to align expectations regarding the progress of the prospectus approval process.

Please note that you should allocate a sufficient amount of time for the processing of the application as well as for incorporation of any comments the FSA may have to the prospectus.

Please note that the prospectus shall be available at least six business days before the end of the offer, cf section 17 of the Executive Order on Prospectuses.

4. How do I submit a prospectus?

Please send the prospectus to the Danish Financial Supervisory Authority, Aarhusgade 110, DK-2100 Copenhagen or by email to the contact person at the FSA. The FSA will assign you a contact person.

Similarly, the issuer or offeror assigns a contact person so that all communication regarding the prospectus can take place through these two individuals.

You may submit a draft version of the prospectus provided that the overall structure is in place and that no essential sections are left unfinished. Only content that cannot be included because it is unknown or unavailable at the time of submitting the draft (e.g. prices and quantity) may be left out. If there are any unresolved issues in the prospectus you submit, you must also submit a separate note stating that there are unresolved issues, what they are and when they will be added. Please note that the FSA will return the prospectus if too much information is missing.

The prospectus must be written in Danish, cf. section 14 of the Executive Order on Prospectuses.

5. What is checked by the FSA?

The FSA verifies that the prospectus, at a minimum, contains the information that is required pursuant to the Executive Order on Prospectuses. The FSA does not undertake a substantive review of the prospectus; the issuer or offeror is responsible for ensuring that the information contained in the prospectus is correct and complete. The persons responsible for the prospectus are to sign a responsibility statement in the prospectus.

The FSA reviews the prospectus and sends any comments to the contact person assigned by the issuer. The issuer or offeror then incorporates the comments before submitting a revised draft of the prospectus to the FSA. All changes made to the first draft, including any deleted text, must be clearly marked in the revised draft. You must also state the number(s) of the page(s) on which changes have been made. Page references must be to page numbers in the corrected draft version of the prospectus. The FSA prefers to receive drafts in Word format (alternatively as a PDF) with changes made in the actual document (not as comments). If there are many changes, we recommend submitting a corrected version as well as a 'clean' version, i.e. with the unmarked corrections. The FSA then reviews the prospectus again focusing on the changes that have been made.

If the review does not give rise to further comments, the FSA will inform the contact person with the issuer or offeror that there are no further remarks. Subsequently, the issuer or offeror submits a signed copy of the prospectus to the FSA for final approval.

6. How will the final approval and publication be carried out?

The approval is based on a complete copy of the prospectus containing the signed statements. The final prospectus does not have to be sent by post as the approval may be granted based on faxed or scanned signatures.

The FSA issues a letter of approval which is sent to the issuer or offeror by digital mail. Additionally, the FSA emails a scanned copy of the letter of approval to the contact person.

When a prospectus has been approved, the issuer or the offeror must make the prospectus available to the public as soon as practicable and at all events within a reasonable time and no later than before the beginning of the offer to the public of the securities in question. Detailed rules are found in section 17 of the Executive Order.

On its website the FSA currently publishes a list of prospectuses approved. The list contains information on the date of approval, the issuer, type of security, and the actual prospectus is also attached.

No fee is payable in respect of the publication of the prospectus by the FSA.

7. Tips for drawing up the prospectus
