The issuer shall be required to disclose publicly such information immediately upon the coming into existence of the relevant circumstances or the occurrence of the relevant event, albeit not yet formalised. Significant changes concerning already publicly disclosed inside information shall be publicly disclosed promptly after these changes occur, and through the same channel as the one used for public disclosure of the original information.

(2) Inside information, which an issuer, as mentioned in subsection (1), or a person acting on his behalf or for his account, discloses to a third party in the normal exercise of his employment, profession or duties, cf. section 36, shall be publicly disclosed in a complete and effective manner simultaneously with the disclosure to said third party. If at the time of the disclosure, the issuer is not aware that disclosure has taken place, public disclosure shall be effected immediately after the issuer learns or ought to have learnt that disclosure of inside information has been effected. The 1st and 2nd clauses shall not apply if the third party receiving the inside information is subject to a duty of confidentiality under legislation, administrative provisions, articles of association or a contract, or if the disclosure is effected in such a manner that it is ensured that the receiving third party knows that the information is inside information and that said third party is consequently subject to the ban against disclosure of inside information, cf. section 36.

(3) An issuer shall only be obliged to disclose publicly inside information under subsections (1) and (2) in relation to the regulated market(s) where the issuer has requested or received approval for admission of securities for trading.

If the financial viability of the issuer is in grave and imminent danger, although a petition for bankruptcy or commencement of compulsory composition has not been submitted, public disclosure of inside information may only be delayed for a limited period, and only if such public disclosure would seriously jeopardise the interests of existing and potential shareholders by undermining the conclusion of specific negotiations designed to ensure the long-term financial recovery of the issuer.
- 2) Decisions or contracts made or established by the management of an issuer, where approval is required from another company body of the issuer in order for the decision or contract to become effective. The 1st clause shall only apply if publication of the decision made or the establishment of the contract before the approval has been granted would entail a risk that the investors do not carry out a correct assessment of the information disclosed.

(7) An issuer of negotiable securities covered by section 2(1), no 1 and admitted to trading on a regulated market in Denmark, in another country within the European Union or in a country with which the Community has entered into an agreement for the financial area, shall no later than eight days prior to the annual general meeting, but no later than four months after the end of the financial year, make public the annual report approved by the board of directors. The Danish FSA shall lay down regulations on which regulations shall apply with respect of preparing annual reports and interim financial statements for issuers from other countries. The annual report and the interim financial statement shall be made available to the public for a minimum of five years.

The statement shall be published ten weeks after the beginning of the six-month period in question at the earliest and no later than six weeks before then end hereof. An issuer who publishes quarterly reports shall not be obligated to publish the interim financial statements mentioned in the 1st clause.

(9) The provisions on interim financial statements laid down in subsection (7) shall only apply to issuers of shares or bonds or other types of negotiable debt instruments, except for securities equivalent to shares in companies, or securities that, if converted or the attached rights are exercised, provide a right to acquire shares or securities equivalent to shares.

(2) If a registered payment system or a participant in such a system grants loans to a participant or an indirect participant in the system in connection with settlement of securities transactions within the system, it may be agreed with the borrower in advance that the borrower's investment securities, which are held with a central securities depository in one or more accounts as specified by the borrower, may serve as collateral for the repayment of such loans.

(5) In cases where loans are granted in connection with settling of securities and payments in systems, where the loans are not covered by subsections (1)-(4), the Danish FSA shall approve that it may be agreed with the borrower in advance that the borrower's investment securities, which are held with a central securities depository in one or more accounts as specified by the borrower, may serve as collateral for the repayment of such loans. Approval shall be conditional upon the agreement on collateral being governed by Danish law.

(6) If an agreement referred to in subsections (1)-(5) has been registered at a central securities depository and if loans are granted for purposes of settlement, a charge on the investment securities concerned may be notified in connection with said settlement, cf. subsections (1)-(5), to the central securities depository with a view to book-entry. 58h.-(1) An arrangement may, with legal consequences for third parties, cf. however subsections (3)-(6), contain provisions stipulating that the financial obligations covered by the arrangement, cf. section 58e, are to be netted through close-out netting, if one of the parties breaches the arrangement, including that close-out netting is to be effected if a party is in insolvency proceedings or if execution is levied against a claim covered by the provision on close-out netting. "Insolvency proceedings" shall mean bankruptcy, composition negotiations, suspension of payments, administration of the insolvent estate of a deceased person, debt restructuring as well as other Danish and foreign types of liquidation and reorganisation measures caused by the insolvency of the debtor, as defined in Article 2, no. 1, j and k of Directive 2002/47/EC.

(2) With legal consequences for the estate and the creditors, agreement may be made to the effect that if a breach arises, cf. subsection (1), close-out netting shall not be effected until the party not in breach gives notification in this respect to the party in breach. In situations where the party in breach is made subject to insolvency proceedings, said party may, however, demand that the close-out netting be carried out in such a manner that the conditions applicable to the parties are the same as they would have been if close-out netting had been effected without undue delay after the time when the party not in breach knew, or should have known, that the party in breach was made subject to insolvency proceedings.

(3) A claim covered by section 16(1), 3rd clause of the Bankruptcy Act may be included in close-out netting under subsection (1) unless the party not in breach knew, or should have known, that suspension of payments had been commenced when the claim arose.

(4) Close-out netting covered by subsection (1), which is carried out after the party in breach has been declared bankrupt, may include claims that incurred before the time when the party not in breach knew, or should have known, the circumstances occasioning the reference date, cf. section 1 of the Bankruptcy Act. Claims incurred after the end of the day when the bankruptcy was published in the Danish Official Gazette may not, however be included in

(5) A claim covered by the provisions of section 42(3) and (4) of the Bankruptcy Act may be included in close-out netting under subsection (1) unless the party not in breach knew, or should have known, that the party in breach was insolvent when the claim against said party was acquired or arose respectively.

(6) Close-out netting under subsection (1) may only be reversed under section 69 of the Bankruptcy Act if such close-out netting included claims which could not have been included in agreed close-out netting in the event of bankruptcy, cf. subsections (4) and (5).

(7) The provisions of section 58a(2), section 58d, section 58e and section 58f(3) shall apply correspondingly to a close-out netting agreement which is not part of a financial collateral arrangement.

58i. The provisions of section 58h(3)-(6) shall apply correspondingly to agreements on ongoing netting.

58j.-(1) A financial collateral arrangement may contain a provision to the effect that the collateral taker may, in the event of a breach, immediately realise the collateral. Immediate realisation may, subject to the terms of the arrangement, be effected

- 1) without advance approval by public authorities or others,
- 2) without advance notification to the collateral provider, and
- 3) without application of a special procedure.

(2) On financial collateralisation in the form of title-transfer, realisation shall be effected through setting off the value of the collateral against the collateralised liabilities.

(3) On collateralisation in the form of cash, realisation shall be effected through setting off the value of the collateral against the collateralised liabilities or through repayment of said liabilities.

(4) On financial collateralisation in the form of security, realisation shall be effected through a sale of the collateral. If stipulated in the financial collateral arrangement, realisation may be effected through the collateral taker appropriating the collateral, provided the arrangement lays down principles for the valuation of the collateral, cf. however section 58d.

58k.-(1) A financial collateral arrangement in the form of title transfer shall, in relation to the act of perfection and realisation, be effective in accordance with the terms of the arrangement.

(2) In the event of breach before the collateral taker has met any obligation to transfer equivalent collateral, the obligation may be made the subject of netting through close-out netting, cf. section 58h, if this is provided for in the arrangement.

58l.-(1) A financial collateral arrangement may contain a provision to the effect that the parties are obliged to provide collateral or additional collateral for changes in the value of collateral or financial obligations covered by the arrangement if the changes occurred after establishment of the arrangement and were due to market-related conditions.

58m.-(1) The collateral provider may, upon agreement with the collateral taker, substitute collateral with other collateral of substantially the same value.

(2) If substitution collateral covered by subsection (1) was provided no later than at the same time as the collateral provider regained possession of the substituted collateral, the substitution collateral may only be reversed if the substituted collateral was reversible.
